THE GIN

Inspired by the blue mountains of the Western Ghats, 7,000 ft above sea level. Tea from the Nilgiris plantations brings distinctive notes, while paan — a popular Indian digestif — adds a floral essence and texture, balanced with a curated selection of classic botanicals.

TASTING NOTES

Nose — Loads of citrusy juniper with a spicy background; delicate brewed tea and floral undertones from the paan.

Palate — Smooth, almost buttery juniper, raw mango and edgy citrus, with a peppery bite and a tease of paan.

Finish — Long, dry and wholesome. Packs a punch.

THE DISTILLERY

Amrut Distilleries, founded in 1948 in Bengaluru, India, distils in small batches at its production unit in Bangalore, the Garden City of India, 3,000 ft above sea level. The tropical climate brings intense maturation, and Amrut now sells over 40 expressions around the world.
